

WILSON APPROVES LINE OF FIGHT FOR TREATY

CABINET CONSIDERS COAL STRIKE; GOVERNMENT IS DETERMINED NOT TO WITHDRAW MINERS INJUNCTION

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION DISCUSSED BY FEDERAL SECRETARIES AT SPECIAL MEETING CALLED BY LANSING; GARFIELD AND HINES PRESENT.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Renewed efforts to bring about an agreement with the government which would end the strike of a half million bituminous coal miners were made today by Samuel Compers.

Mr. Compers and other federation officials held two conferences with Attorney-General Palmer and were to see him again later in the day.

The strike in particular and the industrial situation in general were discussed by President Wilson's cabinet today at a special meeting called by Secretary Lansing, Fuel Administrator Garfield and Director-General Hines, of the railroad administration, were present.

Administration spokesmen reiterated that the government was unalterably opposed to the proposal of Samuel Compers, that the injunction suit against the United Mine Workers of America, be withdrawn as a preliminary to the ending of the strike and the negotiation of a new agreement between the miners and operators.

Officers said that the government's offer to arbitrate the controversy as soon as the strike order was withdrawn was not accepted.

Compers' Soulmate Threat.

Mr. Compers expressed the opinion that he could not be reached if the government enforced legal measures against the strikers. He also again called attention to what he said would be the effect of the government's injunction upon labor organizations generally.

Miners in direct touch with the strike situation apparently were preparing for a prolonged shutdown of the mines. While the railroad administration officials and their work, members admitted that arrangements were being made for full conservation of fuel, should the strike become a bitter and long fight.

The decision to deny coal to foreign ships was accepted generally as providing much additional fuel for domestic purposes.

In some quarters the belief prevailed that the strike on the edges of the solid union districts was losing its force.

Train Service Curtailed.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Curtailing of passenger train service, stopping of mail and express trains, and stopping of American ports, restrictions in some places of the use of public utilities and appeals for coal, should the strike become a bitter and long fight.

STEEL STRIKE RIOTS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7.—Disorders in the Donora-Monessen region along the Monongahela river where numbers of steel workers are still on strike kept police authorities and the state police busy today.

Four men, arrested by the "troopers," were held for court on the charge of felonious assault. Three men were arrested today for alleged complicity in an attempt to dynamite a street car with steel.

The police have been increased and every possible effort was being made today to round up the leaders of the outrages.

Industrial Section of "Y" Helps Find Rooms

That an apparent need of some form of remedy for the lack of obnoxious furnished rooms was expressed by J. D. Koller, industrial secretary at the local "Y" this morning.

He stated that the Y. M. C. A. had no money to supply the demands for furnished rooms both by "Y" members and new-comers to this city.

From nine to twelve applicants for rooms at the "Y" each day are told that they have nothing to offer.

Since taking up the duties as industrial secretary at the local association, Mr. Koller has been actively engaged in securing rooms for the new employees coming to this city.

Not alone at the "Y" but in the homes of private families as well. Through his efforts from five to twelve furnished rooms are rented each day. Yesterday he was instrumental in securing a room for a private family for applicants filed at the "Y."

Receives Medal Awarded Him in Spanish War

San Francisco, Cal.—Let all the world know that the local "Y" has been honored by the awarding of a medal to its industrial secretary, J. D. Koller, for his services during the Spanish-American war.

Long ago he forgot all about it, but when he opened his mail the other day there it was, all bright and shiny, and the accompanying letter said:

Governors Are Awake

Moves by the governors of the militia at the least sign of trouble.

"The full power of the commonwealth will be used to protect those who desire to continue work during the miners' strike," is the notice served on all parties by Gov. William C. Sproul, Pennsylvania.

Gov. Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, is ready to call the militia if disorders start while 99,000 miners are out in that state.

Gov. John J. Cornwell, West Virginia, has promised the government full cooperation in guarding life and property.

Gov. Oliver Shoup, Colorado, vetoed the state department at the beginning of the strike that the people of his state "approve the action taken by President Wilson to maintain order."

Other governors in states concerned in the strike have taken a firm grip on the reins.

INVENTORY OF PEACE REMNANTS IS TAKEN

Paris, Thursday, Nov. 6.—The supreme council is taking inventory of the remnants of the peace conference, endeavoring to decide what questions probably will be unsettled when the council closes.

Eighteen of the peace problems will be left in the hands of an ambassadorial coordination commission.

The reparations commission will have a considerable personnel and a great amount of work incidental to execution of the German peace treaty.

A great mass of matters which have been under discussion by the supreme council are not, strictly speaking, part of the peace negotiations.

It is still hoped the Piuma and Adriatic coast controversy may be settled by the supreme council. If the supreme council cannot take definite action looking to the settlement of the future of Russia and Turkey, the council is held that a special conference will be called later to dispose of the Turkish question.

The Bulgarian treaty probably will be signed in a few days. The peace conference will come to an end before January 1 at the latest, and the United States delegation will surrender the Hotel Carlton and return home.

Hungary Insists That Bela Kun Be Extradited

Vienna, Nov. 5.—The Hungarian government has renewed its demand for the extradition of Bela Kun, former dictator of Hungary. Distinct charges are lodged against him—that he caused to be murdered certain Hungarian officers in Russia, that he caused to be murdered certain officers who came to Budapest as emissaries, and certain citizens in Trans-Danubia, who criticized his government. He is also accused of levying illegal tribute.

GERMANS SUSPICIOUS U. S. BETRAYED CODE, ADMITS ZIMMERMAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, Thursday, Nov. 6.—Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, secretary for foreign affairs during the war, caused a mild sensation during today's session of the national assembly committee investigating the war when he admitted that the German authorities had been suspicious that their code, which had been known to the American authorities, was betrayed to the entente by the United States government.

(The reference is to the special code which the American government permitted to be used in wireless communication with the Washington embassy, a copy of which was furnished to the state department.)

Count Bernstorff said that he could not swear that these wireless messages had not been communicated by the United States to the entente, but later declared under oath that he never had known of such treachery.

Vice Admiral von Capelle, one of the advocates of the U-boats campaign, said that the U-boats had not been able to get at American transports because each sub-marine conveyed its orders by means of a radio and the whole ocean could not be patrolled.

Various British and American inventions, like the "Listening" machine, which could detect the wireless messages, were other things which prevented attacks on transports. He would not say that the admiralty underestimated the United States as a factor in the war.

Known from England's experience with a volunteer army, that the United States could not raise many more soldiers, and it was thought by the time they were trained the war would be over.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, chancellor during the last part of the war, declared he was of the impression in June and July (1917) that the submarines were so destructive that England was weakening.

PRESIDENT PLACES CONFIDENCE IN LEAD OF SEN. HITCHCOCK

(By Associated Press) Washington, Nov. 7.—President Wilson today told Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, administration leader in the senate treaty fight, that he would be entirely satisfied with any reservations supporters of the treaty might feel justified in accepting provided they did not nullify the league of nations covenant and were designed for the purpose of interpreting the terms of treaty.

The president, Senator Hitchcock said, expressed "his very strong approval" of what had been done to date and agreed that no compromise would be offered unless a deadlock was reached on a resolution of ratification.

Senator Hitchcock outlined his program as first an endeavor to defeat the reservations, and if that failed, to vote down the resolution of ratification containing them. His next move would be to present a resolution of ratification and should a deadlock ensue, to attempt a compromise with republican opponents.

Wilson Can Pledge Hole Treaty.

Senator Hitchcock said if a resolution of ratification containing the committee reservations was adopted that would settle the fight as far as the president was concerned, but that the president could "pigeon hole" the treaty.

Senator Hitchcock was with the president for an hour. Mr. Wilson received him propped up in bed. Senator Hitchcock said the president showed keen interest through his judgments and opinions.

The senator outlined the plan to be presented to the next generation of the committee reservations and the president gave general approval.

Senator Hitchcock explained to the president the necessity of the ratification of the whole, as only a majority vote was required.

To Oppose Ratification.

"Our opponents," the senator said, "if the reservations still are in their present form, is to oppose the resolution of ratification. A compromise resolution will not line up with us on that, but I am confident we have enough votes to defeat such a resolution of ratification because two-thirds will be required."

"We will then offer a resolution of ratification ourselves which may be defeated by a vote of two-thirds."

The senator was asked what the next move would be and replied that the next move would be to present a compromise resolution.

Senator Hitchcock did not go over the committee reservations with the president in detail, but will send a copy of them to Mr. Wilson, who will study them at his leisure.

The Nebraska senator said he found the president much improved in health but that the lines in his face showed that he had endured great suffering during his illness.

Says Preamble is Descriptive.

The president, the senator said, classified the committee reservations and also the preamble under debate in the senate today as "descriptive."

The president, the senator said, would be embarrassed if the compromise resolutions were embodied in the resolution of ratification.

Should the treaty's friends be doubtful on some particular point in the compromise negotiations, President Wilson said he would be glad to discuss the question later.

Senator Hitchcock said he advised the president that he expected a great battle over ratification. He was confident that a majority of the senate was against killing the treaty.

In the first test of strength on the resolution of the peace treaty proposed by the foreign relations committee, the senate refused today, by a vote of 48 to 40, to strike out the provision which would require acceptance of the reservations by the other powers.

SAMMIE SISTERS TO AID RED CROSS DRIVE FOR 10,000 MEMBERS

The Sammie Sisters will conduct subscription centers for the third Red Cross roll call in the banks and postoffices Saturday. The women workers, numbering more than 150, are determined to put the energy into their efforts to put the city over the top in the campaign for 10,000 memberships before Nov. 11. The total subscriptions resolved have just passed the 5,000 mark.

The response from the residence districts of the city has fallen hundreds below the records in past drives. The factories still continue in the lead, with the business houses coming as a slow second.

Footville has reported 69 subscriptions and La Prairie 63. Both towns expect to reach their quota by Saturday.

Memberships in the city for the third Red Cross roll call lagged yesterday. Captains and Lieutenants were called into a conference in the afternoon for the purpose of urging workers to re-emphasize their territory.

The first day of soliciting the Samson Tractor company brought in $138. Word has been sent from the La Prairie company that it expects to go 100 percent. Other factories which are being solicited will probably turn in their reports by Saturday.

Persons who received statements from the Shurtlett company within the past few days have noticed the banner which appears across the city streets, "Join the third roll call of the Red Cross."

Mrs. E. A. Ford, chairman of the drive, received word this morning from Milwaukee that Armistice day will be set aside for all persons who have not subscribed to come to headquarters and do so.

Headquarters will be opened Saturday evening to receive subscriptions.

MANY CITIES FIGHT TELEPHONE CHARGES

Charges of telephone companies for installing and changing phones now in effect were vigorously protested by Wisconsin cities at an all-day hearing held before the railroad commission at Madison yesterday.

The commission's decision will be handed down later.

Janesville was represented at the hearing by City Engineer Roger C. Cunningham, who entered a protest against the charge for changing a name, $1.50; for installing a phone, $3.50; and for changing one, $5.00.

Oskosh, Green Bay, Racine, and Milwaukee were among the other cities represented by attorneys.

Telephone company officials and attorneys were in attendance to present evidence that the present rates are justified and are far from what has been called exorbitant.

How to Earn Money

Outside of School

The One Thing You Need Most

By J. H. Millar

"He is gone," sighed Mr. Williams, "the old-fashioned boy, the boy of the Alger books, who began at the bottom and fought and plucked his way to the top by his grit and courage—he is gone. Instead all the kids think about today is how they can get the most money by doing the least work." Mr. Williams was disgusted and angry.

"Oh, it's not quite so bad as all that," replied Mr. Frick. "There are plenty of good industrious boys, but let me tell you, the kind that are scarce. Boys with initiative are the rare species. You will find a hundred that can carry out an order, but only one for every one that can see the thing to do and do it before the order is given. Initiative—going ahead and doing things on his own responsibility—is the most important single quality that any boy can have."

"Right you are," replied Mr. Williams. "I recall two fellows that I used to know in my college days. One was a big lanky six-footer named Jack Jones; he was a cracking good football tackle, a social leader, and an all around college man. Every one said Jack would make a big success in business. That was twenty years ago; he lacked something; today he is shipping clerk in a small Kansas City factory."

"The other fellow was 'Noisy' Thomas. We called him 'Noisy' because he talked so little. Nobody paid much attention to him; he was a skinny little runt with a drooping shoulder on one side and pigeon-toed on the other. I remember one evening he remarked, 'Someone at this school ought to sell typewriters. Two days later he had a typewriter in the college paper and all year he had two Sophomores selling typewriters for him. That's the way he worked and you know the result. He has made such a success in the lumber business that today he can ride in the same direction for forty miles through the big timber belt and his horse's foot will never be off his own land!'"

Even if you are only working to make money outside of school hours, remember about 'Noisy' Thomas. He succeeded because he was not afraid to go ahead and do things.

LUTHERANS MOBILIZE MILLIONS FOR PEACE

Chicago, Nov. 7.—A program to mobilize a million Lutheran men for peace time service was presented to the opening session of the after-war convention of the Lutheran Brotherhood of America. The convention is being held in the Hotel Morrison, Chicago. Twelve hundred delegates from every part of the country, representing local brotherhoods, are in attendance.

The convention was opened by the president of the brotherhood, Dr. J. C. Stub, Minneapolis. Dr. Stub pointed out that the brotherhood was an emergency organization called into being by the emergency of the war. At its first meeting in 1917 it had 20 members. Today it has more than 80,000. Dr. Stub pointed to the question, "What shall be the task of the brotherhood in times of peace?" He said:

"Our Lutheran church's man-power is today an undisciplined host of innumerable possibilities. It is the aim of the brotherhood to organize this force and make it available for church, home, and country."

A banquet was held in the Morrison hotel, at which nearly 2,000 delegates and guests were present. Dr. A. C. Stub, president of the brotherhood, was the toastmaster. The addresses of the evening were given by Dr. F. F. French, Jr., president of the United Lutheran church, and by Clarence Magney, mayor of Duluth.

Does the Self-Starter Start?

By Grant M. Hyde

"Why doesn't this morning, Dad? I stepped hard on the button and nothing happened."

"No current, I guess, sonny. Battery is low."

"What has the battery got to do with it?"

"A self-starter, my boy, is nothing more nor less than a powerful little electric motor which runs on storage battery current and which revolves the engine shaft. Until a few years ago, all the cars had to be cranked by hand, because a gasoline engine, no matter how powerful it is, will not start of itself like a steam engine. Someone must crank or turn the engine shaft, until the charges in the cylinders begin to fire. Now the cranking is done by little electric motors called self-starters."

In our car the electric motor is beside the engine's fly wheel so that, when you press the starter button, you not only switch on the engine, but push the motor shaft into gear with the fly wheel. On other cars the motor is geared by chains, friction clutches, or in other ways, to the engine shaft.

To supply current for the starter motor, as well as the lights, electric horn, and ignition in the engine, sparkplugs, modern cars have a generator which makes electric current whenever the engine is running. The current which it creates is stored in the storage battery ready for use at other times.

"When the starter doesn't start, it is usually because we have used so much current with starter or lights that we have almost exhausted the supply in the battery. Sometimes the battery is wearing out, for they seldom last more than two years. Usually the positive terminal—is loose or corroded. And it may be other things, but it is usually because the battery needs charging."

Flying Parson Gets Ready For One Stop Air Race

Lieut. Balvin W. Maynard.

NEW YORK.—Lieut. Balvin W. Maynard, winner of the New York-Toronto air race and the first aviator to fly across the United States and return in the great transcontinental aerial derby, is preparing for his one stop flight to San Diego. The "flying parson" is bent on achieving this feat, thereby adding another record to his already long list and to the history of aviation.

Lieutenant Maynard plans to make the flight in a De Havilland, known as the "Greyhound," the same type of plane he used in the ocean-to-ocean flight which he completed last Saturday. The plane will be reconstructed, however, so that it can attain a greater speed, and so that it will meet with less resistance from heavy winds.

The streamliner effect will be carried out from the network of wires to landing gear. Everything that will serve to help the plane speed over the country will be included in the reconstruction, and it seems certain that Lieutenant Maynard will establish a record for time that will long stand off all assaults by rival birdmen.

The minister-aviator plans to fly from Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, to Dallas, Tex., without a stop. After a rest and an inspection and overhaul of the plane Lieutenant Maynard will resume his flight to his California home.

Just how long it will take the "flying parson" to cover the distance or

EDGERTON ELECTRIC SERVICE INCREASED

[By Gazette Correspondent]
Edgerton, Nov. 7.—The manager of the local branch of the Janesville Electric company is asking for laborers at a high wage to work on an extension of the high power electric line between Madison and Janesville. The building of so many factories has increased the demand for electric current so greatly that the local power plant cannot keep up to the demands of the patrons. The new line is of 33,000 voltage. The line comes within 2 and one-half miles of this city, crossing the Rock river about on the line of what is known as the Bradley farm. It is thought by completing this new project that the load on the local system will be so reduced that service will be greatly augmented. It is understood here that the Hanson Tractor company, Janesville, is interested in this project as it is a heavy user of electric current.

The De Havilland plane which Lieutenant Maynard will pilot has been equipped with two extra gasoline tanks so that he may carry an unusually large supply of fuel. These tanks are in addition to the regular tank in the rear of the pilot and are attached to either side of the fuselage between the aviator and his motor. They are known as saddleback tanks and with the normal supply of fuel the total amount of gasoline is brought up to 360 gallons.

Lieutenant Maynard will probably be accompanied on the flight by Sergeant W. E. Kline, master signal electrician, who served as the parson's observer in the ocean to ocean derby. Maynard said upon reaching Milwaukee on his return flight from San Francisco that Kline was the best mechanic in the army and knew a motor like his A B Cs.

Lieutenant Maynard's plane will be equipped with a 400 horsepower Liberty motor which is capable of making 124 miles an hour. The streamliner wires and landing gear will serve to reduce the air resistance and also strengthen the plane.

IN discussing the Standard Oil Company, a well-known lawyer said: "The underlying causes of whatever trouble this organization may have had are to be found in its efficiency and its advanced methods, which make competition difficult. As a producer and distributor of petroleum products the Standard Oil Company leads the world."

It is a matter of pride to those responsible to the 4649 stockholders that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to operate its business as to insure a maximum production of useful products at a minimum of cost, and it has always been the policy of the Company to sell its products to the consumer at a minimum price.

During the past five years when the industries of the world have been disorganized by war, and the cost of production has been increased tremendously, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by reason of its advanced methods has been able to keep the price of petroleum products at so low a point that the people of America can afford to use the output of the Company in ever increasing quantities, while elsewhere in the world only the wealthy can enjoy the comforts of these commodities.

This condition has been brought about by largely increased facilities, and by careful conservation of raw materials.

Thus, in spite of tremendous increases in cost of crude oil and labor, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to fulfill its obligations in a manner satisfactory and beneficial to the stockholder, the employee and the public.

Thousand Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people. A large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

LADY ASTOR RETORTS TO WOMEN'S QUERIES

[By Associated Press.]
Plymouth, Thursday, Nov. 6.—"Do not think for one minute I am ashamed of my Virginian blood," snapped Lady Astor this morning at a woman's query when she was asked why she was not spending her energies in America, where there were so many social evils as here.

"What do you want me to do?—sit at home and hold my hands?" Lady Astor went on. "I married in England, my interests for 10 years have been in Plymouth, every drop of blood in my veins is Anglo-Saxon, and I am proud of my American birth."

Lady Astor's eyes flashed and she gestured for a moment. Resuming her speech, she declared women would be the ones to bring about the working of the league of nations and men tell you they had good times at the front." Lady Astor asserted, "but I do not believe a mother with a son there ever had a good time. Men had physical courage," she said, "but they often lack moral courage, and that is the kind of courage most needed today."

Answering another bombardment of questions, Lady Astor said: "There are two sections of the labor party—those who embrace the true trade unions; the other young intellectuals. I know the latter as red hot bolsheviks cranks. Half of them never fought in the war, and most of them have never been working men. They are heart and soul of the independent labor party."

How the Straus Plan
Safeguards Investments

FIRST mortgage real estate bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan have been found to be fundamentally sound through all the changing circumstances and conditions of the past thirty-seven years, because of the definite and rigid system of safeguards with which we surround every bond issue we underwrite. The chief features of the Straus Plan are as follows:

1. We are investment bankers, not a real estate operating company, and we loan our funds on the best class of newly improved, income producing real estate in the larger and more prosperous cities of the United States.
2. Every loan is made in the form of a first mortgage serial bond issue. Each bond is simply an old-fashioned first mortgage divided into bonds. Each bond is a direct first mortgage on a single specific piece of improved real estate securing it, and a first lien on the earnings of the property.
3. These bonds are not our debenture obligations, but the obligations of the mortgagors from whom we have purchased them.
4. The bonds are retired—or amortized—by annual serial payments which reduce the amount of the bonds outstanding by about 5% each year without releasing any part of the property mortgaged.
5. In addition to requiring ample equity in the property over the amount loaned, we consider earning power a factor of vital importance.
6. As an additional protection, borrowers are required to deposit with us each month in advance one-twelfth of the amount of interest and principal coming due during the year. This insures prompt payment of interest and principal in cash when due, and prudent and conservative financing on the part of the borrower.
7. We limit our loans to properties in good growing neighborhoods which show a steady upward trend in values.
8. We loan only a safe proportion of the value of the property mortgaged.
9. We loan only to corporations and individuals of responsibility and good standing.
10. The serial payments of these bond issues give investors an opportunity of purchasing $1,000 or $500 bonds coming due in any length of time from two to twenty years as they may elect.

The Straus Plan has been in successful operation for thirty-seven years without the loss of one dollar of principal or interest to any investor on any security purchased of us. We have prepared special literature of value to every investor.

ROAD WORK PREPARATION.

County officials in charge of next year's highway program will be interested in suggestions made by the government regarding winter shipment of construction material. Rock county's work can proceed much more rapidly next year if every possible preparation is made before the weather next spring permits actual construction. We are fortunate in having sand and gravel at hand and no doubt arrangements have already been made to get as much of this material hauled to points of proposed building as possible during the winter months.

The bureau of public roads, department of agriculture says:

"While the expenditures during 1919 for hard-surface highways will set a new record with a total of $135,000,000, this figure is small in comparison with the computed available total for 1920 of $333,000,000, the spending of which promises to be dependent chiefly on the quantity of materials the present limited railway facilities can transport.

"The items entering into next year's estimate are: Brought forward from unfinished work, 1919 contracts, $165,000,000; funds available from state and county taxes and federal aid, $273,000,000; one-fifth state and county bond issues not before available, $50,000,000; one-third unexpended balance of state and county bond issues previously available, $45,000,000; available from new bond issues to be voted on in the fall of 1919 and spring of 1920, $100,000,000.

"Unless the available open-top cars, many of which normally lie idle in the late winter, are utilized in that slack season the work which can be done will necessarily be curtailed for lack of materials. The total for 1920 is more than four times the amount that has been expended during any previous year for like purposes. Therefore there must be a tremendous increase not only in the material supplies and shipping facilities but also in the labor supply, and an enlargement of contractors' organizations. First of all, according to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, the attention of all state, county, and city road-building interests should be directed toward overcoming this car shortage. To this end it is recommended that the shipping of materials begin earlier than usual. The first step in accomplishing this, Mr. MacDonald points out, is to place under contract during December and January as great a mileage of roads as possible.

"It has been customary to wait until contractors' organizations were ready to begin work before starting the shipment of material. Under these conditions many thousands of open-top cars lie idle during the latter part of February, all of March and the earlier part of April. During the past spring the number of open-top cars that were idle totaled more than 250,000. This, of course, was partly unavoidable owing to the late date at which work got under way, following the signing of the armistice. By awarding contracts as early as possible, contractors will be able to ascertain their material requirements at different points, and so will be in position to place orders dependent on rail transportation a considerable time in advance.

"While the placing of material in storage, which may result from such a course, involves some expense, it will be small compared to the loss that will result if contractors are not in a position to go ahead with the work because of lack of materials. In view of the experience of 1919 and the greatly increased program for next year, it seems probable, according to the bureau of public roads, that contracts which are not awarded during the winter months will have little opportunity for being supplied with materials which require rail transportation."

TIMES MAY CHANGE.

If in the course of a couple of years we have a siege of old-fashioned hard times, with men walking the streets in search of work, any kind of work, at any wages they can get, we probably will look back to 1919 and wonder at ourselves and our behavior.

We will recall that in 1919 work was so plentiful that no one appreciated having a job, and that labor was so scarce that men could "get away with murder," as the saying goes, without fear of complications with the boss. Take for example the man who works three or four days each week in haphazard fashion, and lays off the rest of the time, spending his high wages. Or the cook who works a month for some fabulous stipend, and then takes a vacation in some boarding house until her money is spent, and she is ready to accept another portfolio. Dare anyone reproach such workers? NO! They are slackers, as sure as you live, but if you hunt as much, you will hurt their sensibilities. Some cold day they may look back to 1919 as the golden age when they might, alas, have worked steadily and saved some money, but they cannot see it that way now.

If times grow hard, men may perhaps be so glad of a chance to hold a real job that they will consent to do some real work in a day's time. Take the case of the workman in a neighboring city who was studiously engaged in doing four hours' work in eight hours' time at about double the pay he used to get for ten hours' of real work. He was a plasterer. At that, he had a grouse because people expected him to work when he might be out enjoying the autumn sunshine. Well, the plasterer's employer hinted gently, ever so gently, that a slightly better performance would be gratifying. What did the outraged workman do? The next day he did not show up on the job, and on the second day he came around triumphantly with the president of his union. That official explained what a serious matter it was to hurt a man's feelings by asking him to do more work, with men so scarce and everything. Why, it wouldn't do.

We all know perfectly well, of course, that all men are not shirkers, even if the times are unusual, and how we do respect a man who works honestly!

Some of the men in business might remember that hard times are likely to follow such a wave of prosperity and treat all with more consideration.

Let us hope that we will be spared the evils and sorrow of the days of panic, that are supposed to follow periods of inflation and recklessness. We ought, all of us, to adopt a policy of preparedness. If we can manage to be considerate of others, and diligent, and disposed to save some of our money, and willing to help produce, and disinclined to trample those in our path in our struggle for advantage, we may perhaps save off or entirely avoid the evil days.

THE OLD CLOTHES GIVERS.

He gave away a suit of clothes that he no longer cared to wear. And all that day it seemed to me his head was higher in the air. "Oho," his manner seemed to say, "behold in me a kindly man! To help the needy and the poor I always do the best I can."

Another gave a bit of gold that he could well afford to spare. And he too walked along the street as one who'd really done his share. And if you'd asked him he'd have said as proudly as a mortal can: "I am not steeped in selfishness, I always help my fellowman."

Now, pondering on the gifts we make, I wonder where such giving leads. Has he done everything he should who gives what he no longer needs? Has he the right to pride himself whose kindly works are told in this: That he has merely given away the things which he will never miss?

The world needs kindly men today, unselfish men who'll gladly give. Some of the joys they crave themselves that other men in peace may live. A broader vision now we catch; no longer any man can say: That he has done his duty when he gives but worn-out clothes away.

stalled by the police department, the suggestion being made that not enough territory is taken in.

Such a suggestion is well founded, but at the present time it would be impossible to cover more than the downtown district. Only $6,000 has been appropriated for initial installation of the system and with that amount points in the business section can be cared for. The boxes will be so placed, Chief Morrissey informs the Gazette, that extensions can be made in any direction at times when more money is available.

As the city grows it will be necessary to extend police protection to more of the outlying districts and a system of hourly patrolling of beats will no doubt be established. It will be necessary at that time to have patrol boxes on those beats.

Vanishing Gems

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Precious stones were never so precious as they are today. With cut diamonds worth a thousand dollars a carat, and rubies, emeralds and sapphires of the finest quality worth even more than diamonds, the truly precious stones have gone beyond the reach of all but the most wealthy.

Waldemar T. Schaller, of the geological survey, who is an expert on precious stones, says that this, like almost everything else, is due partly to the war. The mining of precious stones has fallen off greatly in the last few years. But it is due even more to the fact that the supply of stones in nature is steadily diminishing. This, of course, does not apply to exactly to pearls, which are manufactured by oysters. Pearls are not within Mr. Schaller's jurisdiction because they are not minerals, but pearls are also becoming constantly more expensive.

Assessing Value Acquired.
The astonishing value which precious stones have acquired by becoming scarce has given rise to many interesting developments known to the layman. The tip of a lead pencil is worth a thousand dollars, and with the struggle for the necessities of life as bitter as it is, it takes a real man of woman to wear many diamonds. Many, of course, do it in spite of the risks, but the number of gems which repose in pockets and never see the light of day is undoubtedly increasing. There are many famous jewels which have not been seen for generations. Such, for example, is the famous diamond of Portugal. It is kept locked up in a safe and no one is ever allowed to see it. It is said one reason for this is that the famous Braganza stone is not a diamond at all, but merely a chunk of quartz. No one is allowed to see it because if it was seen by an expert it would become known and the Portuguese government would be the subject of an international laugh.

The value of gems at this time is nothing of the value that they will have in the future, for they are becoming scarcer every day. There is no better investment than a diamond, which has been known as an emerald, provided the stone is genuine and of the highest quality. Such a stone is more certain to rise in value than any stock or bond you could possibly buy. But unless you are an expert, or have the advice of one, do not rush into this line of investment.

Away Abundant.
There are two precious stones which we all will probably always have in abundance. They are the rubies and sapphires. These are not imitation stones but genuine ones. A ruby or sapphire is nothing but aluminum oxide, otherwise known as corundum, which has been melted. When melted this substance takes a crystalline form and a color and shape. The color is due to impurities in the corundum. If the color is red it is a ruby, and if yellow it is a sapphire.

Perfectly good rubies and sapphires can be made by mixing corundum and coloring it with various substances. These rubies and sapphires have exactly the same chemical composition as the natural ones, but they occur in nature, and exactly the same appearance, except for minute differences, which it takes an expert to detect. For example, a man advertised for sale a fine ruby which had been pronounced genuine by an expert whom he named. The man went to the national museum. This man did have a genuine ruby, which he showed to the expert. He also had a supply of synthetic rubies of the same size and shape. When he got to the museum he substituted one of the synthetic rubies for the genuine, putting it in the same setting. The customer might call up the expert for a check about the stone the expert had examined for so-and-so. The expert would say that he had examined such a stone for the man named. The customer might even go to the expert and show him the stone, and the expert, thinking he had seen it before, would merely glance at it, and say that it was all right. Unless he had reason to suspect fraud, he would not again place the stone under the microscope. In this way the enterprising crook sold several synthetic stones at a profit of a thousand dollars or more each.

Diamonds Made from Glass.
It is claimed that diamonds have been made synthetically also, but this is not true according to Mr. Schaller. Good imitations of diamonds are made from glass, of course, both for purposes of fraud, and for society women to wear in public while leaving their real gems at home. These glass diamonds are made of a special soft glass which has exactly the same refractive power as a diamond. They look exactly like diamonds. The only difference is that they are not as hard and will not wear as long. They must be polished and touched up once in a while.

Another result of the growing preciousness of precious stones has been to stimulate the use of the less precious, but in many cases beautiful stones. Garnets, opals, turquoise, topaz, tourmalines and chrysoprase are some of the better known of these, but there are numerous others. Even quartz, one of the commonest minerals in nature, is quite widely used in jewelry.

Many of these stones are nearly, if not quite as beautiful as the more valuable ones, but there is an unfortunate tendency to sell them under false names. Thus garnets alone have been sold under some 50 different names, such as American ruby, Arizona ruby, Bohemian diamond, almandine, Ceylon hyacinth, guaracac, hessentite, Italian emerald, and others. Even quartz, one of the commonest minerals in nature, is quite widely used in jewelry.

People Get Suspicious.
But in the long run, this makes people suspicious of all the cheaper stones, and tends to defeat legitimate trade in these really beautiful gems. An excellent and somewhat flagrant example of this camouflage jewelry business was seen in Atlantic City. An ordinary quartz, stained yellow by iron in its composition, was sold under the name of "Apricotine" for quite a fancy price.

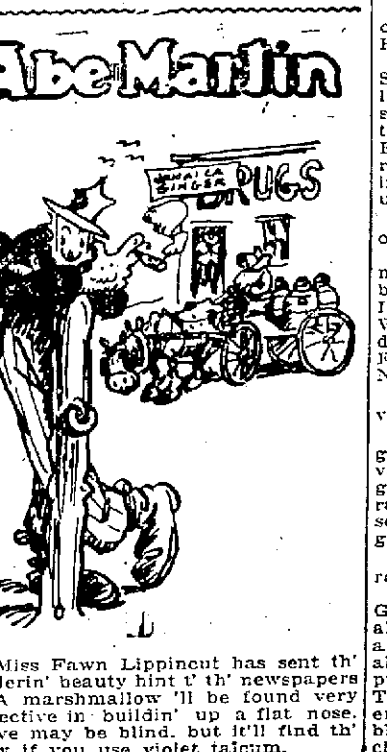

Quartz is a very common stone, and Mr. Schaller has prepared an alphabetical list in which all of the precious and semi-precious stones are included, together with the names under which they have been sold. By means of this list anyone can find out what any stone offered him under a fancy name really is, and the great war, undoubtedly destroyed many precious stones. They were lost by civilians in hasty flight, burned in buildings, and buried on dead bodies. Many large stones were doubtless stolen by looters, cut up into smaller pieces and sold. No one seems to know what has happened to the great jewel collection of the Russian Imperial government.

It is said that wealthy Germans took many diamonds off the market when they began to doubt the ability of Germany to win the war. By putting their money into diamonds they had their wealth in a form which was readily portable, and could easily be concealed so as to escape taxation and confiscation. These diamonds can now be sold at greatly enhanced values.

ANOTHER SILENT BUYER—ALMOST.

The other day I steered into a one-armed bootery, and after partaking of a sumptuous (got that?) feed, decided to blow myself to a smoke. I shimmied up to one of those automatic vending machines and took a shot with a .25 in. diam. and turned the indicator until the needle was directly over a box of fine (looking) smokes, each doled up in a gold band and everything. It seemed a shame to pierce the alfalfa wrapper, but I was set on getting my money's worth so I harpooned a section of Manila hemp, right through the gold band. As the indicator was swung back toward the home plate, with my prospective smoke dangling therefrom like a steel girder, on an electric crane, something went wrong with the block and tackle, and—bing! My cigar lay peacefully reposing out of reach, while I stood at the dump. No word spoken!—Frank Bill.

Dear Roy: Isn't it about time to take down the signs in front of hospitals reading, "Walk your horses"? Where are all the horses of yesterday? Q. The only training school of this kind is located in Jerusalem and is conducted under the auspices of the American Zionist Medical Unit. Q. What size maple trees are most suitable for transplanting? W. J. S.

Q. The forest service says that a maple tree three inches in diameter is best to transplant. Transplanting should be done in the fall or early spring.

Q. Has the government set a price on sugar and where should profiteering be reported? W. R.

A. While it has been said that 11 cents is a fair retail price for sugar, the definite figure has been set by the government. If you have reason to believe a merchant is profiteering the matter should be reported to the department of justice, Washington, D. C.

Q. Why cannot money orders be sent to Austria? G. A. P.

A. The postoffice department says that the sending of money have not been established in Austria since the war, and until some staple money values have been established we cannot exchange money with Austria.

Q. What is the name and speed of the fastest ocean liner now afloat? H. E. S.

A. The Mauretania of the Cunard Steamship company is the fastest liner in use. It usually takes about six days for a first class steamer to make the trip from New York to England. The Mauretania holds the record for this trip, having made it in four days, ten hours and 56 minutes.

Q. Did the Indians ever make use of camouflaging in warfare? J. S. A.

A. Yes. There are remains of mounds and embankments in Alabama built by the Natchez tribe of Indians. Some of the mounds were used by the Indians for defense work against the French. The tribe was driven from Natchez in 1780.

MILTON VICINITY READY FOR DRIVE

One hundred and fifty interested people of Milton, Milton Junction, Lima, and Johnson townships attended the meeting of the Wisconsin Colleges Association held in Kelson hall, Milton Junction, last evening. Grant Davis, Milton, is chairman of the towns of Milton and Milton Junction. Those in attendance and a friendly get-together meeting followed. W. H. Dougherty of this city addressed the meeting on the practical need of the coming drive at this time. Dr. W. C. Dalland, president of Milton college, told of the need of financial assistance for privately endowed colleges. E. J. Resler, district organizer, suggested the form of organization completed in other communities. Much enthusiasm prevailed at the meeting. Excellent results are expected from this district. The coming drive which starts Nov. 10 and continues for one week. The quota for Milton and Milton Junction is $1,000 a year in each town for five years.

GILLESPIE ON CURB
New York—Jock Gillespie, the small infighter, tried to get the Giants last spring and landed out of Binghamton, where he shaped up very well, has invaded the curb market on Broadway. Possibly a majority of the brokers don't realize that Jock is in their midst, but if he attacks around long enough they'll know it, for, small as he is, he can't remain in any company very long without attracting attention. The little fellow, wearing a red cap and perched high up on a window sill of one of the buildings, was made at the curb, and he is already more prominent in the matter of talking with his digits than any ball player in the league in since Dummy Taylor's day. "You have to keep your head up down here," said Jock. "It doesn't pay to miss signals here any more than it does on the ball field."

WHAT IS NEW LAD EGG?

London, Eng.—The vexed question "What is a new-laid egg?" is at present confronting a committee of poultry experts, who are endeavoring to arrive at a solution. The committee held its first meeting at the rooms of the Royal Agricultural Society in Bedford Square. Mr. Edward Brown, president, and several representatives present from many countries, including Scotland, Wales, Canada, Denmark, France, Italy, the Netherlands, and the United States. The proceedings were private. The committee aims at establishing an international standard of quality for eggs, and also improved methods of grading and packing. The committee is the outcome of a resolution passed at the International Poultry Conference held last March.

17,000 INFLUENZA DEATHS

London, Eng.—Dr. J. C. Dunlop, Superintendent of Statistics, in a supplement to the reports of the registrar general for Scotland, states that the total number of deaths ascribed to influenza during the epidemic in Scotland, in the latter part of last year and the early part of this year was 17,575. This number included not only those deaths of which influenza was the sole named cause, but also those deaths to which influenza was one of two or more named causes. The latter being far the more numerous.

The death toll from the recent epidemic was greatly in excess of all previous epidemics. The greatest influenza mortality hitherto was in 1900, when, however, it amounted to 2,826.

WOMEN TO THE FORE IN BOWLING; NEW SAMSON SCHEDULE

Women now are coming to the fore and taking their place on the bowling alleys. Following the organization last night of a thirteen team league at the Samson works of their male sports, comes the announcement that an eight-team association of girls employed at the works is getting under way to play Mondays and Wednesdays at the West Side alleys.

In the office of the Gazette, the women have fallen in line and are ready to start with two teams. However, so far they have not been able to get use of the alleys. There is a possibility that they can secure the West Side. At first they may have to confine their play between themselves, though they are anxious to arrange games with the Samson women.

Limited Facilities
With so many teams now knocking on the door, it is difficult with the limited facilities here to give all a chance at the pins. Use of the Arcade by the ladies, according to Dorrbaker is out of the question, at least at night. He is willing to let the gentler ones come in on the afternoons from 3 to 7 o'clock, but it so happens that the women are mostly employed and cannot get away during those hours.

The organization of the Samson Bowling league took place last night. This morning the schedule for the men's games was given out with the announcement that the arrangements for women's games have not yet been concluded. The schedule follows, set for Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays at the West Side alleys. Each team bowls once a week.

The schedule:
November 7—Master Mechanics vs. Carpenters.

November 11—Test Department vs. Model "M" Assembly; Parts Stock Room vs. Model "D" Assembly.

November 13—Millwrights vs. Electricians; Janesville Machine Co. vs. Cost and Time.

November 14—Master Mechanics vs. Pipefitters; Personnel Dept. vs. Traffic Department.

Follow A. B. C. Rules

Observation of the rules of the American Bowling Congress will be observed by the Samson teams in the line-up of teams will be permitted from game to game where deemed advisable by the captains, but no shifts can be made during a game. Another order denies any man the privilege to bowl on any team other than representing the department in which he is employed, although two departments may form a combination team. Permission is granted to a man to bowl only in the Samson Bowling League.

Promptness in the playing of games is to be enforced. Failure to be on hand in time, will cause forfeiture of a game, unless a captain reports by noon before the game that his team cannot appear as per schedule.

Japan Articles Are Flooding England

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

London—"Made in Japan" is the fact that is being impressed by window displays in London shops. The same is true of other English cities where stores are selling these articles from Japan.

Domestic utensils, mats, brooms, pajamas, works of art, underclothing, fancy goods, furniture and other goods.

SAMSON ROLLERS OFF; ONE-SIDED RESULTS

The first games of the newly formed Samson Bowling league, held last night at the West Side alleys, ended four of the teams, might well be likened to a runaway for two of the teams. The Janesville Machine company five knocked the Millwrights for a perfect game of three games, while the Pipefitters played the same time on the Traffic Department. Margins of 200 for the Machine crowd and 523 for the Pipe men showed the class of each contingent.

"I regret not; many of the later years have proven disastrous in the extreme," he admitted, hesitatingly. "You will pardon me, sir, if I decline to discuss misfortune. All I mention is Kirby. I have been awaiting you. Have you met with this young man who came aboard at Port Armstrong? I am unable to recall the name."

"Steven Knox."

"I felt the firm, strong grip of the other's hand, and looked straight into his dark eyes. They were like a mask. The face was long, firm-jawed, slightly swarthy, a tightly clipped black mustache showing in the upper lip. It was a reckless face, yet appeared carved from marble."

"Excuse me, please to meet you," he said carelessly. "But the dull list on board—more and such cattle. Bound for St. Louis?"

"Yes—and beyond."

"Still see more of you then. Well, judge how I feel? Carver and McAfee are waiting for us down below."

The two disappeared through the door in the upper deck.

CHAPTER II

History of the Beaucaires
The first two days and nights of the journey southward were devoid of any special interest or adventure. After the first day Kirby withdrew all attention from me and ceased in his endeavor to cultivate my acquaintance, confining himself to the elimination of insects in cards. Throckmorton, being his own pilot, seldom left the wheelhouse, and consequently I passed many hours in the berth beside him. At one time or another he had not the famous characters along the river banks, and through continual questioning I thus finally became possessed of the story of the house of Beaucaire.

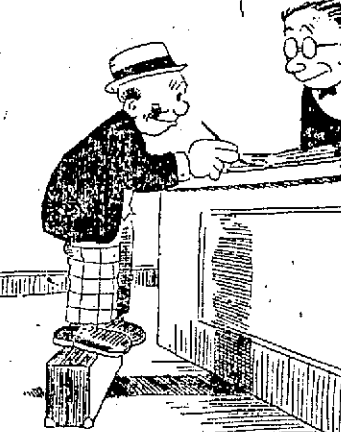

In the main it contained no unusual features. Through the personage of a Frenchman, a Louisiana courtier, Alphonse de Beaucaire had originally received a royal grant of ten thousand acres of land bordering the Mississippi, the land extending some miles above St. Louis. When his master returned to France leaving him unemployed, Beaucaire possessing ample means of his own, had preferred to remain in America. In fact, he was a man of considerable means, and with his family, had ascended the river and finally settled on his princely estate. Here he erected what for those early days was a stately mansion, and devoted himself to cultivating the land. Twenty years later, when his death occurred, he possessed the finest property along the upper river, was shipping heavily to the New Orleans market, and was probably the most influential man in all that section.

His only son, Felipe, succeeded him, but was not so successful in administration, seriously lacking in business judgment, and being decidedly indolent by nature. Felipe married into one of the oldest and most respectable families of St. Louis, and as a result of that union had one son, Lucius, who grew up reckless of restraint, and preferred to spend his time in New Orleans, rather than upon the plantation. Lucius was a young man of twenty-six, unsettled in habits, when the father died, and against his inclination, was compelled to return to Missouri and assume control of the property. He found matters in rather bad condition, and his was not at all the type of mind to remedy them. Much of the land had been already irretrievably lost through speculation, and when his father's obligations had been met, and his own gambling debts paid, the estate once so princely and magnificent, was reduced to barely five hundred acres, together with a comparatively small amount of cash.

This condition suited to sober Lucius for a few years, and he married a daughter of a Frenchman, an excellent family but not great wealth, and earnestly endeavored to rebuild his fortune. But unfortunately his reform did not last. The evil influences of the past soon proved too strong for one of his temperment.

The plantation house became a rendezvous for all the wild spirits of that neighborhood, and stories of fierce drinking bouts and mad gambling were current in St. Louis.

"Hank, you ever been at Beaucaire, captain?" I asked.

"We always stop at the landing, but I have only once been upon the bluff to where the old house stands. The judge who lives from home in St. Louis, I believe—the day of my visit, he had sold me some timber, and I went out with the family lawyer, a man named Haines, living at the landing, to look it over."

"The house was closed?"

"No; it is never closed. The housekeeper was there, and also the two daughters."

"Daughters?"

"Certainly; hadn't I told you about them? Both girls are accepted as his daughters, but I don't know if he is true, one must be his grand daughter. He paused reminiscently, his eyes on the river. "Haines told me a number of strange things about that family I had never heard before," he admitted at last. "You see he has known them for years and attempted to meet Beaucaire's legal business. This is about how the story runs, but it seems that Lucius Beaucaire has been married twice—the first time to a Creole girl in New Orleans when he was scarcely more than a boy. Nobody now living probably knows whatever became of her, but likely she died early; any way, she never came north, or had since been heard from. The important part is that she gave birth to a son, who remained in New Orleans. Probably he died, for until he was fourteen or fifteen years old, there some occurrence, possibly his mother's death, caused the judge to send for the lad, whose name was Adelbert, and had him brought to Missouri. All this happened before Haines settled at the Landing, and previous to Beaucaire's second marriage to Miss Adelaide Menard. But as the boy was called, grew up wild, and father and son quarreled so continuously that finally, and before he was twenty, the lad was sent away, and has never been heard of since—simply disappeared, and no one knows to this day whether he is alive or dead. I never if Judge Beaucaire ever received any word from him he never confessed as much to Haines. However, the boy left behind tangible evidence of his existence."

"You mean—"

"In the form of a child, born to a quadroon girl named Della. The mother, I believe, was able to convince the judge of the child's parentage. All this happened shortly before Beaucaire's second marriage, and previous to the time when Haines came to the Landing. Exactly what occurred is not clear, or what explanation was made to the bride. The affair must have cut Beaucaire's pride, but he was too old to face the conditions. It ended in his making the girl Della his housekeeper, while her child—the offspring of Adelaide Beaucaire—was brought up as a daughter. A year or so later the second wife gave birth to a female child, and those two girls have grown up together exactly as though they were sisters. Haines insists that neither of them knows to this day otherwise."

Nobody now living probably knows whatever became of her, but likely she died early; any way, she never came north, or had since been heard from. The important part is that she gave birth to a son, who remained in New Orleans. Probably he died, for until he was fourteen or fifteen years old, there some occurrence, possibly his mother's death, caused the judge to send for the lad, whose name was Adelbert, and had him brought to Missouri. All this happened before Haines settled at the Landing, and previous to Beaucaire's second marriage to Miss Adelaide Menard. But as the boy was called, grew up wild, and father and son quarreled so continuously that finally, and before he was twenty, the lad was sent away, and has never been heard of since—simply disappeared, and no one knows to this day whether he is alive or dead. It ended in his making the girl Della his housekeeper, while her child—the offspring of Adelaide Beaucaire—was brought up as a daughter. Cost of Men's Wear
Blamed on Clothiers

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Nov. 7.—Present high prices for men's ready-made clothing today was blamed on the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, by Nicholas Michaels, assistant state's attorney, in whose hands were books and records of the organization taken in a raid yesterday on its headquarters. More than $500,000 as "fines" and "settlements" was taken from clothing manufacturers by the union, the state's attorney's office charged. Agents called strikes for their own gain, it also is alleged.
The organization is said to have more than 150,000 members, dominating the clothing making industry at Chicago, New York, and Rochester, N. Y., the three clothing centers.

CORCORAN ART GALLERY.
For those who are interested in the cow, and who derive inspiration from her beauty of line and color, the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington has unusual charms. The life of the cow receives much publicity there. She is portrayed in all her varied activities.
As cow after cow confronts the seeker after beauty, it is considered to wonder why so many artists choose her as a subject. She is not the most graceful of creatures. Often her color scheme is lacking in both design and harmony. But she stands still longer than almost any other living animal, and that may account for her popularity among the artists whose paintings are exhibited in the Corcoran gallery.
The Corcoran gallery was established by a wealthy man of that name for the encouragement of American art, and it fulfills this purpose by holding two exhibitions of American paintings every year.

Sometimes it buys some of the pictures which are exhibited. Unknown artists say that only those of established reputation ever sell anything to the Corcoran, and radical artists say that the Corcoran management does not know that anything has happened in the world of art since the days of Queen Victoria. But the Corcoran people and the artists whose pictures they buy are both pleased with themselves.
One of the pictures in the Corcoran is of the kind that tell a story. Pictures like this cause a truly modern artist to gnaw his brushes in his hand. It says that art is done telling stories and that its proper function is to create beauty of color and design. But the people that run the gallery don't agree with him. And besides, the pictures in the Corcoran are just the kind that the tourist who comes to Washington like to see. And everybody wants the tourist to be happy.

From that date until the outbreak of the war General Parker served with cavalry regiments in the United States. After taking command of the Eighteenth Infantry he was continuously with the First division. After the division left the rank of brigadier general and the command of the First infantry brigade.

CARDS ARE BARRED FROM A. A. U. RANKS SAYS MGR. McCUE

CLAIMS REASON NOT GIVEN—LOCAL BASKETBALL QUINTET, LAST YEAR UNION CHAMPS MAY FORM NEW LEAGUE—LIVELY SCHEDULE ARRANGED.

The crack Lakota Cardinals, Janesville's best basketball team, and winners last year of the Central Amateur Athletic Union championship are barred from entering the A. A. U. games this year, Manager James P. McCue last evening.

"I don't know why they are shutting us out," he stated. "I was informed Wednesday from a reliable source that all Wisconsin teams will be ignored in the tournament. This year there isn't any good reason put forward. When I learned it I wrote to Dean (a former official of the A. A. U.) asking an explanation and he has not yet replied."

Pressed for his views on the matter, McCue declared that "everybody knows that the A. A. U. has been run by Chicago people who want Chicago to win. Last year Janesville won the championship and now they are trying to get George Chandler, captain last year of Great Lakes, to accept a contract with the Cardinals."

To strengthen this formidable array of basketball twisters, the Cardinals are trying to get George Chandler, captain last year of Great Lakes, to accept a contract with the Cardinals. Chandler is a wizard at the game, a former U. of W. player.

"The list of games scheduled brings out the first ratings of the sport. The first game will be held on November 29. The whip will be cracked at either Carroll college or the Car-A-Lot club of Ford du Lac."

The other games are all to be played on the home court. Dec. 6.—Kissel Motor Co., Hartford.

Dec. 13.—Minnesota Crescents. Dec. 20.—Davenport Triangles. Then will follow a series of games with some of the smaller clubs, after which two games will be played with the nationally known, New York Nationals. These will be pulled off on December 29 and 27.

The really big games of the season will not come until after the first of 1920. The first of the bunch probably will be a battle with the Madison Athletic Club of New London whom the Cardinals beat out last year for the A. A. U. championship. It will be held on January 3.

Next in line come the Detroit Rays; Whiting Owls; Springfield (Mass.) and the Chicago Cubs. The match is with the Madison Athletic Club of New London whom the Cardinals beat out last year for the A. A. U. championship. It will be held on January 3.

The make-up of the team this year shows little change from the team of last year. The rapid basketballers, George Lewis of Madison and

TILLMAN GETS DRAW WITH JACK BRITTON

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—Johnny Tillman of Minneapolis, retained a draw in his ten round fight with Jack Britton, champion welterweight, here last night. Britton did most of the leading, but in Tillman he found an opponent ready and willing to swap punches at every stage.

At times Britton was forced to use all his cleverness and generosity to escape punishment, but Tillman discovered that he was up against one of the most scientific fighters in the game.

BRINGING UP FATHER

FIVE TIED FOR SECOND IN CITY LEAGUE GAMES

Arcade alleys sounded like a cheering practice room last night when the enthusiasm of the local City League followers went sky-high with close game. A final wind-up of 28 pings ahead was the result of a good night's work when the Siegels throw down the Hubs two out of three. Janesville News put over two to one on the Lawrence Lunch.

But the yelling came mostly in the games between the teams of the Lawrence Lunch and the Morning News. Koen rivalry was indulged in by these men and led by their captains, "Shorty" Leveick and "Jimmy" Murphy, they knocked down almost as many pings with their wind as the balls.

Spurred on by his teammates, Dietz of the News put across a high run of 208. Closely following him for honors was Trifoloff, rolling for Siegel, who came away with 202. High average for the night fell to Hughes of the lunch at 181 2-3.

It was announced that invitations would soon be sent to other colleges and universities to join in an intercollegiate aerial association. Pennsylvania and Johns Hopkins were mentioned as among the institutions under consideration.

Negotiations are now under way, it was stated, for a three-cornered cross country race next spring between Columbia, Harvard and Yale, to be modeled on the plan of the New York-Toronto race held recently.

O'Dowd Gives the K. O. To Milwaukee Kramer

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 7.—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul, world's champion middleweight boxer, knocked out Billy Kramer of Milwaukee in the second round of a scheduled 8-round bout Thursday night at the Lyceum theater. O'Dowd forced the fighting hard in the first round, reaching Kramer's body and head with telling blows, and early in the second round the champion shot a hard right cross to Kramer's jaw, flooring him for the count.

THE WISHING PLANE

Now, I know you thought that when the kidnapper gave the letter to the young man near the hotel to deliver to the clerk's desk, the young man kept right on to the hotel and did as he was asked, pocketing the five dollars.

Well, that wasn't what happened at all. The young man continued on his way to the hotel until he was sure that the kidnapper was having no more attention to him. Then he turned around quickly and began following the kidnapper, slipping into doorways and behind trees whenever he thought the kidnapper might be glancing back.

The kidnapper, of course, walked along at a rapid gait toward the house where the other kidnappers were and where the children were being held. The young man followed him closely. It was a long walk—through the rest of the city, down to the shore of the bay and then along the street to the house, but the young man kept track of the kidnapper all the way.

When the kidnapper turned into the house the young man watched the place for a while in the hope of learning something about the place, but the drawn blinds and the fence around the house prevented him from getting a glimpse of anything going on inside the place. So after waiting for a few minutes and making sure that he could find the place again, the young man started back toward the hotel.

As he reached the center of the city he stopped under a street light long enough to open the letter—it had become unsealed—and read the two notes. Then he laughed right out loud, shoved the letter in his pocket and went on his way.

But we'll leave him for a while and see what was happening in the little old woman's house, where the kidnappers had been waiting for the return of the man who had been told to get the letter to Captain Byrne.

When he entered the house and told the other members of the band how easy it had been done he expected that they would all be very cheerful and confident of getting the money. But he found, instead, that they were too much excited about another happening to pay much attention to him.

Jack and Jane had been seen in the little old woman's yard.

It wasn't because Jack or Jane had disobeyed the little old woman, either.

This is how it happened. A taxman had come into the neighborhood and was prowling around people's back yards looking for old rags and other things he could buy. The high fence back of the kidnappers' house promised his curiosity. Thinking that there might be a big pile of papers or iron or something in the yard inside the fence he piled some boxes on top of each other in one of the yards, climbed onto them and looked over. There he saw the children playing on the ground.

Jack and Jane didn't see him at all, but the little old woman, who had been watching the children from her chair inside one of the windows, saw him. She rushed to the door and screamed at him to get down, which he did in a hurry, for she looked at him so terribly I'm sure he had a right to be scared. He grabbed his bag and hustled off to the neighborhood as quick as he could.

Of course, the little old woman couldn't tell whether he had heard about the kidnapping or whether he thought anything about seeing two foreign-looking little tots playing in that neighborhood, but she knew that the only thing to do was to tell the band of kidnappers about it. So this is what they were discussing when the messenger came back from taking the notes to the hotel.

3000 YEARS BEFORE RAZORS.

"Er—" began Bla, quietly to Glub the cave man. When Bla said "er—" before the next word, it meant something. So Glub retired to a far corner of the cave and pretended to be chiseling a boat out of a boulder for little Waw, the youngest cave baby.

Bla advanced with both hands behind her, evidently holding something, if not her largest club. (See Donald MacSmoother's "The Origin of Golf Clubs.")

"Glub," Bla continued, "where the dorlaurus is my Kinechippus skirt?" She took five strides nearer.

"And where is my brontosaur skirt?"

Bla took a bound closer.

"And by Phoroneas! Where is my new Hylododon ungulatus girdle?"

"She was quite next, now, Glub could back up no farther without lying flat on his face, for that part of the cave tapered to where floor and ceiling met. It was a burn move. (See Silas Swait's "The First Game of Checkers or Corned.")

"I don't know, Bla. Honest to goodness, I don't."

"Oh, you don't?" said Bla, calmly, considering her gigantic loss, as she fixed him in the eye with her club.

Just then little Waw started to howl because his pet baby dinosaurus refused to have his tail pulled, and the minute it took Bla to answer her cave mother instinct and turn to look at Waw, enabled Glub to arise and pick up the stone boat he had been carving.

"So," began Glub, "you want to know where your scraggly old female duds are, do you, Bla?" And he came up to Bla, with the rock behind him.

"Well," he continued boldly, "I asked you for my hunting knife yesterday and you said it was in the pocket of your brontosaurus or something skirt, and I didn't know a skirt from a skirt, so I just took the whole business and burnt 'em up and found the knife in the ashes. Now, what have you got to say about it?"

With a mighty swing of her club, Blalet fly at Glub's knee-caps, bringing him to her feet with a sick groan. And this is the first record of a man falling on his knees to a woman.

First Time In Six Long Years

Duluth Man Is Able To Eat Breakfast—Thanks To Tanlac

"For six years before I found Tanlac I didn't eat breakfast a single morning," said Gunner Greenlund of 2123 West Second St., Duluth, Minn., when he called at the Abbott Drug Co. the other day. Mr. Greenlund is a well known sheet metal worker having been employed for twenty-two years by S. G. Peterson of Superior, Wis.

"About ten years ago I began to suffer with my stomach," continued Mr. Greenlund. "After eating I would have cramping pains in the pit of my stomach that would almost draw me down. These spells got worse and began to come on me often, and several times a year they would be so bad that I would have to lay off from work for weeks at a time. I tried every treatment I knew of but my condition got worse instead of better. Six years ago I got where I couldn't eat breakfast and ever since then I went to my work in the mornings without touching a bite. Several months ago I had the worst spell I ever had, and my health broke down completely. My appetite had, of course, already been gone but I ate so I could hardly eat a thing. I couldn't sleep at night, and during the day I would have awful headaches. I knew something had to be done for I was losing strength, and losing it fast, so fast I thought I would have to give up my work entirely."

"I read of Tanlac in the paper and decided to give it a trial. Well, sir, the very first bottle began to straighten me out right away. It has been only about three weeks now since I started on this Tanlac, and the way I've improved has surprised me so. I feel like it's a dream. I have a big appetite now and can eat three square meals a day, something I haven't been able to do in six years. My goodness, I sleep like a child and get up in the mornings feeling like a young boy, full of pep and life. The old cramping pains in my stomach are a thing of the past, and I'm not troubled with headaches any more. In fact, Tanlac has fixed me up so that I don't know what an ache or pain is."

TANLAC is sold in Janesville by all leading druggists.—Ad.

Dressmaker Gives Advice

"I underwent a surgical operation for gall stones 5 years ago, was in the hospital 4 weeks. For 1 year I felt better, but then my old symptoms and pains returned, and I have suffered ever since. Four weeks ago on the advice of a lady I tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I now feel like a new woman. I have a number of friends who suffer as I did and I am advising all to try this valuable medicine. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded."

If Thin and Nervous Try Bitro-Phosphate

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various causes, it is a well-known fact that the lack of phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of Bitro-Phosphate, which can be obtained from any good druggist in convenient tablet form. In many instances the assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue soon produces a marked improvement. Nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness and loss of energy and the whole body loses its ugly hollow and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing. CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not put desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

From Cherry-Blossom Land

The Japanese Give Good Example

It is a proverb of Cherry-Blossom Land that beauty of face and figure depends on womanly health. What is it that makes the Japanese women often pale, sallow-faced, with dark circles under the eyes, and very often old and forty-five who they should be in their prime? Womanly health is the key to the health of the body. When a woman complains of back-ache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "Cherry-Blossom" tonic. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size of the tablets for ten cents.

GRAIN

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The weather and a prediction of more rain to upturns today in the price of grain. The advance, however, selling increased and the market reacted to below yesterday's finish. Business in the December delivery was not as large as heretofore, and the general disposition was to shift trade to the May delivery. Opening prices, which ranged from 2c to 2c higher, with December $1.28 to $1.29 and May $1.25 to $1.26, were followed by a general setback that more than wiped out the gains.

Oats displayed weakness, owing to absence of demand. After opening unchanged to 1/2c higher, including Dec. at 71 1/2c to 72c, the market hardened a 1/2c, but then underwent a decided sag.

Higher quotations on hogs lifted provisions. Besides, liberal shipments of both of fresh and cured meat were reported.

Increased receipts here counted as a bearish factor and so too did the coal strike. Then reports that the government might order resale induced general unloading which was added to by notice that the permit system had been modified. The close was heavy, 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c net lower, with December $1.24 to $1.25 and May $1.21 to $1.22.

A LADY DIVER.
London, Eng.—Miss Naylor, secretary to Lieutenant-Colonel Mackenzie Ross, director of the Armada Gallion Syndicate, recently put her training as a practical salvage diver to the test in Tolbermory Bay. As a preliminary she experimented in about six fathoms, equipped and carefully directed by the experienced diver on the staff. "Crowds of spectators cheered the lady as she disappeared into the water. Miss Naylor descended cautiously but steadily, and remained below for periods of ten and fifteen minutes, telephoning meanwhile to those in charge of her enjoyment of her experiences below.

The Gasoline which Helped Win the War

To the Motoring Public:

"The U. S. Government does not determine quality by gravity test, nor is it included in their specification requirements."

GRAVITY has no relation to quality, power, or thermal efficiency of gasoline for automobile use.

Today Every Drop of Red Crown Gasoline Sold in Janesville

Gravity test is a delusion. The tendency of the motoring public to adhere to this delusion is fostered for what there may be in it by those ignorant of scientific facts—and this position has cost the motoring public hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly.

is of the same quality and specifications as the gasoline furnished the U. S. Government by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) during the war, when the issues of life and death were involved.

Red Crown Gasoline is guaranteed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to be the best motor, fuel present-day knowledge can produce. Its quality can be demonstrated. Use it and note its mileage performance.

For sale at all Standard Oil (Indiana) Service Stations and leading garages.

N. G. UNITS FORMED THROUGHOUT STATE

Madison, Nov. 7.—"Tomah has 90 men enlisted, a majority of them former service men, with Captain Van Wye, who saw service on the Mexican border in 1916, in command," is the cheering word that comes from this city that had such a gallant command in the field in 1917.

"Beloit will have its full quota with Captain 'Speedy' Henderson in command," comes the official word from Beloit.

"Waterloo will have a company," reports Jahor White, who received his promotion from lieutenant for efficiency while on duty in France.

"Janesville will reorganize Company M as quickly as possible and will retain the company designation if possible," writes the secretary of the officers' conference in that city.

"Platteville is ready," reports Captain Cary, Monroe, who has his company in Captain Schneider, of the present state guard and a former national guardsman, and Lieutenant Colonel Schirner of the 8th Infantry and also a former guardsman, and Captain Mitchell, A. E. F., now sheriff of Green county, have anything to say. These reports come to the adjutant general's office from all parts of the state.

Acting upon these indications, General Orlando Holway is planning for the next year's encampment of the Wisconsin national guard to be one of the most noteworthy in the history of the guard. Taking the form of a reunion of former comrades, many separated by the reorganization of the 32nd division at Waco, it will be an interesting event. It is barely possible that all the guard will be in camp at one time. If not, each regiment will have two weeks' tour of duty.

Watertown—Leroy J. Burlingame, internal revenue service, who made his home here last winter, has been chosen as one of two Rhodes scholars from Wisconsin, and will enter Oxford university, England, in January. The other Rhodes scholar from Wisconsin, Edwin Williams, Beloit college, will enter with him. Mr. Burlingame is the son of E. H. Burlingame, former superintendent of schools in Columbia county, and is now working with the federal service and attending school at Madison.

WAR PROHIBITION ACT

The Gazette is able to present herewith a copy of the war prohibition act summarized so that it may be easily understood by the public through P. J. Mount, deputy revenue collector. The following has been sent out by Burt Williams, collector for the second district of Wisconsin: "The Congressional Act (H. R. 6319) constraining the meaning of the words prohibiting the sale of or manufacture of beer, wine, or other intoxicating or vinous liquors, as used in the war prohibition act, has become a law.

It is now a violation of law for any person to manufacture or sell any beverage in any quantity which contains one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume. Therefore, any person who manufactures or sells any beverage (in violation of law) containing the above described amount of alcohol, becomes a violator of law, liable to punishment, and may be fined $1,000 and imprisoned for one year in a Federal penitentiary. This penalty does not apply to registered pharmacists who have obtained a permit from the collector (Form 737). Such pharmacists may sell only on prescription of a physician.

Attention is called to the following except from the law: "The term 'War Prohibition Act' used in this act shall mean the provisions of any act or acts prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors until the conclusion of the present war and thereafter until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the president of the United States. The words—beer, wine, or other intoxicating malt or vinous liquors—in the War Prohibition Act shall be hereafter construed to mean any such beverages which contain one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume. Provided, that the foregoing definition shall not extend to denatured wine nor to any beverage or liquor produced by the process by which beer, ale, porter or wine is produced, if it contains less than one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume, and is made as prescribed in Section 87 of Title II of this Act, and is otherwise denatured than as beer, ale, or porter, and is contained and sold in, of, from, such sealed and labeled bottles, casks, or containers, as the Commissioner may by regulation prescribe."

A very important feature of the new law declares that any place, room, building, etc., where intoxicating liquor is sold or manufactured is a "public and common nuisance," and, as such, may be abated or enjoined by court action. The provisions of the law on this point are as follows:

Section 3. Any room, house, building, boat, vehicle, structure, or place of any kind where intoxicating liquor is sold, manufactured, kept for sale, or bartered in violation of the War Prohibition Act, and all intoxicating liquor and all property kept and used in maintaining such a place is hereby declared to be a public and common nuisance, and any person who maintains or assists in maintaining such public and common nuisance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or be imprisoned for not less than thirty days or more than one year, or both. If a person has knowledge that his property is occupied or used in violation of the provisions of the War Prohibition Act and suffers the same to be so used, such property shall be subject to a lien for and may be sold to pay all fines and costs assessed against the occupant of such building or property for any violation of the War Prohibition Act occurring after the passage thereof."

Any person who violates provisions of the War Prohibition Act as to the sale of beverages containing one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume, in addition to the penalties prescribed, also becomes liable to pay a special tax of $1,000 if the sale or manufacture takes place in a territory which is "dry" by local or municipal law.

The legal purchase or sale of beverages containing one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume at retail may be summarized as follows:

1. No person can sell at retail any beverage containing one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume except a registered pharmacist holding a permit from the Revenue Department and having paid the tax required of a retail liquor dealer and such pharmacist can sell only on prescription written by a registered physician in his own hand writing. No prescription or be refilled. Pharmacists must preserve in a separate file one copy of every prescription filled and shall transmit each month to the Collector of Internal Revenue a list showing the names of physicians prescribing the names of the patients, and total quantity dispensed to each patient. Druggists should absolutely refuse to fill prescriptions if there is any reason to believe physicians are dispensing for other than legitimate, medical uses or that the patient is securing through one or more physicians quantities in excess of the amount required for legitimate uses.

2. Under the War Prohibition Act physicians may prescribe wines and liquors for internal use and alcohol for external use. The prescription must be in duplicate and both copies must be signed by the physician himself. The patient must be under the "constant personal supervision" of the physician and the prescription must give the name and address of the patient, the condition or illness for which prescribed, the name of the druggist to whom the prescription is to be presented, and shall be dated. Not more than one quart may be prescribed at one time. The physician must keep a record in which a separate page or pages shall be allotted to each patient for whom alcoholic liquors or wines are prescribed and he must enter on such record a transcript of the prescription written.

3. Any place where prohibited beverages are sold, except in full compliance with the law, is a "public and common nuisance," and the person maintaining such a nuisance is guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined $1,000 and imprisoned for one year and the owner of such place, who has a knowledge of the violation of law, is liable to pay all fines and costs assessed against the occupant of his property and his property may be sold to pay such fines and costs.

4. Any person who violates the law in a territory that is "dry" by local or municipal law, becomes liable to a special tax of $1,000.

So far as sales by wholesale are concerned the law provides that wholesale and retail liquor dealers with stock of wines and liquors on hand, may sell (and their stocks are exhausted) to pharmacists or druggists, but such pharmacists or druggists must hold a permit (Form 737) on Form 739 from the Collector to make such purchases. Wholesale and retail liquor dealers must be careful not to sell to anyone not presenting to them Form 739.

It will be observed that the penalties for violation of the War Prohibition Act are severe. It is quite possible for one and the same person who violates the law to be called upon to pay $2,000 in fines, to be imprisoned two years, and to pay a special tax of $1,000.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has informed me that he hopes to have the active cooperation of all moral agencies in the proper administration of this law, including churches, civic organizations, educational societies, charitable and philanthropic associations, and that he expects that all revenue officers and all state, county, and local public officials will operate to the end that violators of the War Prohibition Act may not escape the penalties provided by law and that such law be enforced thoroughly and without fear or favor.

The war prohibition act expires automatically on the conclusion of the present war and the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the president of the United States, and the new National Prohibition Act takes effect in January, 1920.
